“Cowgirl Heart”

The dust of the trail clings soft to my skin,
A story of miles, of where I’ve been.

With reins in my hands and the sun on my face,
I’ve learned that freedom lives out in this place.

A cowgirl’s heart is steady and true,
She rides for the journey, the skies so blue.

Through storms and sunsets, wild and wide,
Her spirit’s unbroken, her horse by her side.
It’s not just the saddle, the rope, or the ride,

It’s the strength deep within that she carries inside.
For the west is a song, and she plays her part,

With grit in her soul and a cowgirl’s heart.
